CULTIVATION OF POPPY IN NORTH WIDESPREAD

Vast Sums Reported To Have Been Realised From Drug By Officials

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 8.—It has been openly stated that General Pao Kwei-ching, Tuchun of Kirin, cleared $3,000,000 from opium revenue during the brief period in which he was Tuchun of Heilungkiang, but it is believed that General Chen Shu-fan's income from that source has been vastly greater; for he imposed an opium tax on all land and hundreds of farmers resorted to poppy cultivation as the only means of paying the tax.

It is believed that more poppy is now grown in Shensi than in the days when no legal restrictions had been imposed. As in Szechuen, poppy is grown practically all over Shensi.

Big Japanese Firms Pat On Blacklist By British Organisation

Trading With Enemy Before Peace Believed Reason For Step By Industrial Federation

A number of Japanese firms, including some of the most prominent in Japan, have been blacklisted by the Federation of British Industries, according to information received from an authoritative source. The cause is believed to be that the firms in question had been trading with the enemy before the declaration of peace.

There are at present several members of the Federation of British Industries in Shanghai and these members have been notified of the blacklist and have been advised not to deal with the concerns specified. Six Japanese firms have been named, among them some of the biggest general trading companies of the country, and it is stated that others also may be involved and may be added to the blacklist later.

Need Of Money May Force Peking To Solve Problems And Bring Peace To Country

All Avenues Of Obtaining Funds Are Closed And Change To Gold Standard Is Urged As Timely Measure For China

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Peking, August 7.—Back of all other perplexities and intrigues troubling China today, the great fear which haunts all responsible officials in the government and will ultimately drive them to seek a solution of the political situation is the state of the government's finances. The climax is fast approaching, with the expenses of government organs not yet paid off for June and July. The small amount actually appropriated for official expenses comes from the salt surplus.

For years the Peking government has been paying its way through extended credit. Gradually, like the rats that leave the sinking ship, every financial supporting agent is deserting the government. In the first place provincial remittances have been held back on one pretext or another, at times almost amounting to a defiance of the central authority. When ordered to remit, some provinces even wired demanding payment of the arrears of military expenses overdue. Repeated demands are coming in from the tuchuns all over the country stating that disbandment of troops is impossible and in some cases enforcement of discipline is becoming difficult, because of the arrears of pay.

Other Avenues Closed

Various avenues for obtaining loans are one and all closed at the present time. Foreign banks, under order from their governments, refuse to advance any money until the conclusion of peace by the warring forces in China. Pending the formation of the new Consortium all foreign bankers are pledged not to negotiate loans with China. Native banks also are closed to loan negotiation. The Banks of China and of Communications, which formerly agreed to advance thirty to seventy percent of the monthly deficit of the government, have announced this month that they are unable to risk their resources on the government security any longer. Their course is justifiable in view of the fact that the Salt and Customs surplus with which these loans were to be repaid have depreciated in the last few months and, with the other liabilities of the government drawing on them, have proved insufficient to cover the advanced loans. Small native banks which have hitherto advanced money on short term loans now not only refuse this accommodation but are demanding repayment. It is said that Mr. Kung Hsin-chan, Minister of Finance, wishes to desert the ship now by resigning his post in the ministry of Finance as well as refusing the premiership.

Gold Standard Urged

The question of the adoption of the gold standard is meanwhile still much discussed in financial circles in Peking and is the main topic of study of the financial officers. It is the opinion of the government Financial Commission, which has recently been organised to study the subject, that the present is a suitable time to introduce currency reform in view of the low rate of gold and the increasingly high price of silver. The shortage of silver, which recently reached a crucial point, has become less serious momentarily with the coming in of silver payments from the interior to the markets. But the stoppage of the coining of silver dollars in Mexico and the fact that there is no sign of an increase of silver or raising of its price in the world money markets indicates future difficulties. It is known that a prominent representative of a foreign banking group who recently visited China in the interests of the new Consortium favored an immediate change to a gold basis for China, and this opinion has had weight with Chinese officials. The advantages of such a change with its improvement in exchange facilities and its accompanying currency reform to a decimal and uniform system are apparent. It has been estimated, however, that the expenses of calling in and redeeming present coin, and redeeming provincial depreciated notes, as well as of accumulating a sufficient gold surplus, would involve an expense of from one to two hundred millions of dollars.

Money for such a project as well as for meeting the pressing liabilities of the government can be obtained only with the restoration of unity and peace. And when will that be?

This means a loss, compared with January 1913 of 400,000 tons or over four-fifths of her whole mercantile marine. What remains is said to be barely sufficient to carry on Germany's Baltic services.

OPERATIONS IN SIBERIA NOT POPULAR IN JAPAN

Resentment Growing Against Keeping Troops There, New Gains Made By Bolshevists

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, August 8.—A feeling approaching resentment is growing against Japanese troops remaining stationed in Siberia. The necessity of sending military assistance to the Czecho-Slovaks, which was the sole reason for the despatch of the troops, has ceased to exist. Japan is committed to a pledge not to interfere in Russia's internal affairs and is under no obligation whatever to engage in policing for Russia.

It is felt that it is absolutely necessary for the Government to lose no time in taking the country into its confidence concerning the real necessity, if any, of stationing troops in Siberia at great expense and sacrifice, or else to withdraw them as Japan must never become involved in the civil war in Russia.

Bolshevists Make New Gains

Irkutsk, August 9.—The Bolshevists are 60 versts east of Chelibinsk and 40 versts west of Tumen.

The Siberian armies are falling back at the rate of five to ten versts daily, the rear guards taking the brunt of the fighting in covering the retreat of the main bodies.

Magyar war prisoners forming part of the town garrison participated in the recent rising at Krashoyarsk, the object of which was to destroy the railway and cut the communications. Loyal troops promptly and effectively suppressed the movement.

Fugitives from Ekaterinburg who escaped after the occupation say the Bolshevists slaughtered over 2,000 of the bourgeoisie the first day of the occupation, while on the arrival of a Magyar and Chinese punitive expedition on the following day a general massacre commenced.

BUDAPEST CABINET OUSTED; ARCHDUKE PLACED IN POWER

Newly Formed Government Overturned By Forces Of Pre-Bolshevik Regime

RUMANIAN CRISIS

Allies Angered By Acts Of Bucharest Troops; Threats Made

FOOD IS WITHHELD

Rumanians Fixing Terms Acting In Defiance Of Council At Paris

(Reuter's Service)

Budapest, August 6.—A deputation of officials, headed by General Schnetzer, went this evening to the ministry and summoned the Cabinet to resign on the ground that the Government did not represent the whole nation. The Cabinet decided to resign.

The Entente Mission has delegated the authority to Archduke Joseph, who has appointed Stephan Friedrich, a former War Office official, Premier; General Tanozos, Minister for Foreign Affairs, and General Schnetzer, Minister for War.

Change Is Sudden

All is quiet in the city.

London, August 7.—Apparently the new Hungarian Government consists of representatives of the pre-Bolshevik regime.

Later news shows that the downfall of the Peidel Cabinet was dramatically sudden. Hungarian gendarmerie surrounded the National Palace, where the Cabinet was meeting, and arrested the Cabinet.

Demonstrations Held

Budapest, August 7.—An enormous and enthusiastic crowd demonstrated all last night before the hotel where the new ministers are staying and dispersed singing the Hungarian national anthem. Perfect order prevails in the city.

The Entente missions have permitted the national flags to be hoisted.

Archduke's Proclamation

Budapest, August 8.—A proclamation signed by the Archduke Joseph says:

"Impelled by my imperishable love of the Hungarian people and responding to requests from all sides, I have undertaken the solution of a seemingly impossible situation. I cannot look on while the politicians of various interests and party groups are quarreling over the fate of our poor, broken Fatherland. Everywhere complete anarchy reigns. In Trans-Danubia, there is a ministry in office that nobody recognises and the complete stoppage of the food supply already threatens a catastrophe unless the educated classes, united with the sober working-classes and peasants, establish order with a strong hand."

The Proclamation appoints provisional ministers including Friedrich as Premier and Tanozos as Minister of Foreign Affairs but not including a War Minister. It says a transitional government will be formed in a few days after the citizens, peasants and workmen have been consulted and concludes—"Let everyone in whose heart still lives a spark of patriotism support the Government with entire devotion in their difficult position. Away with discord, criticism and sophistry. Let there be unity, understanding and work. Let us immovably trust in the better future of our Fatherland."

Paris Council Aroused By Actions Of Rumanians

Paris, August 8.—The Supreme Council has been occupied at length with the consideration of the tangle at Budapest, whence the reports of all the Allied representatives depict the conduct of the Rumanians unfavorably.

The British representative, General Gordon, telegraphs that the Rumanian troops are committing outrages.

Mr. Polk, the chief American delegate, told the Supreme Council that the composition of the new Hungarian government and the manner of its formation would do more to spread Bolshevism than anything else.

The Supreme Council drafted a telegram to the French Minister at Bucharest for transmission to the Rumanian Government recalling that on August 5 the Allies sent a Military Mission to Budapest to arrange that the Hungarian Government should execute the terms of the armistice and to safeguard the Hungarian population from violence or pressure at the hands of the Rumanian Army. The Supreme Council learned on the 6th that the Rumanian Generalissimo had presented fresh armistice terms to the Hungarians. The Supreme Council then telegraphed to the Rumanian Government refusing to recognise the rights of the Rumanians to conclude a fresh armistice, warning the Rumanian Government against any violation of the law of humanity and requesting it to order the Rumanian generals at Budapest to obey the orders of the Inter-Allied Commission at Budapest. No reply has reached the Supreme Council but it has learned that the Rumanian generals have refused to obey the Commission, permitted pillaging and established a blockade which is reducing Budapest to starvation while they have destroyed the railways between Budapest and Vienna and committed other violations of the rights of the Allies and even of humanity. The telegram concludes by requesting the Rumanian Government immediately to demonstrate by its acts that the inference of the conference that Rumania is resolved to disregard its authority and separate herself from her Allies is mistaken.

Cuts Food Supplies

Paris, August 8.—Mr. Hoover, who is directing relief work in Hungary has ordered the suspension of all consignments of food for Budapest on the ground that the Rumanians are carrying off all food.

Mission Not Received

Paris, August 8.—According to L'Echo de Paris, owing to the refusal of Rumanian authorities to receive the Allied Military Mission, the Supreme Council has made energetic representations to the Bucharest Government.

Americans Take Action

Berlin, August 8.—The Berliner Tageblatt's Budapest correspondent telegraphs that the American Government has requested the Rumanian Command to withdraw their armistice conditions, threatening a stoppage of supplies to Rumania.

Issue Ultimatum

Paris, August 6.—It is reported that the Rumanians have handed to the Hungarian Government an ultimatum demanding the immediate surrender of a large proportion of her Danube shipping, equipment and supplies for an army of 300,000, rations for the Rumanian troops pending the peace settlement, the reduction of the Hungarian army to 15,000 men and the surrender of 30 percent of the harvest, animals and farm machinery and 50 percent of her railway supplies.

The French Government says that the Rumanian army is not accepting French orders.

Refuse Recognition

Paris, August 7.—The Supreme Council has telegraphed to the Rumanian Government distinctly refusing to recognise the right of the Rumanians to make the demands cabled yesterday.

Paris, August 8.—The prohibitive attitude of the Allied Supreme Council towards the Rumanians is the subject of considerable criticism in the French press, it being stated that the Entente representatives now at Budapest are wiring strong protests against the actions of the Rumanians. Prominent French journalists warn the Supreme Council against allowing themselves to be influenced by local Entante representatives whose personal beliefs have been upset by recent events.

Occupy Whole City

Paris, August 7.—Rumanian troops crossed the Danube and occupied the whole city owing to the expiry of the period fixed for the acceptance of the armistice.

Friedrich, the new Premier in Budapest, belongs to the Bourgeois party.

It is intended to offer portfolios to the Agrarian party, the members of the so-called Szegedin Government, and the Social Democrats.

The Archduke Joseph was always a very popular member of the Imperial Family. He resided in Budapest and held an army command during the war. He was among the first at the beginning of the revolution to recognise the new regime and to support Count Karolyi. The Supreme Council has not only refused to recognise Rumania's right to impose fresh armistice terms but has also pointed out that the execution of reparations and indemnities was vested in all the Allies.

American circles are strongly indignant at Rumania's action and predict that it will disastrously affect opinion in America.

French circles take a less serious view. They express the opinion that Rumania will not refuse to comply with the decision of the Peace Conference and it is urged that in judging the startling course of events, the fact that Rumania is an ally and Hungary an enemy should be remembered.

Mission Dispatched

Paris, August 6.—The Supreme Council has appointed four generals to go to Budapest to supervise the carrying out of the terms of the armistice. General Graziani will represent France; General Gordon Great Britain; General Bandholz, the United States, and General Monbelli, Italy.

London, August 7.—In the House of Commons today Mr. Cecil Harmsworth, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, stated that the situation in Budapest was obscure.

Vienna, August 7.—According to the Zeit, the Hungarian Ambassador, M. Boehm, fled in a motor car from Vienna yesterday evening after burning the Embassy's secret documents. Hungarian journalists and officers went to the Embassy this morning and thrashed and ejected the personnel.

The population of the town in Lower Austria where Bela Kun and his two associates are interned under assumed names have met and demanded their removal before the end of the week.

Wilson Explains Purpose Of U.S. Troops In Siberia

Now Needed To Keep Open Railway And Provide Necessities For Population

Washington, July 31.—The despatch of the American Expeditionary army to Siberia was taken in connection with the Japanese to steady the efforts of the Siberians in their own self-defense and to save the Czecho-Slovak troops in Siberia from the annihilation that threatened them, says President Wilson, in a statement forwarded to the Senate on Saturday, and made public today.

A summary of the Presidential statement, which was called for by a resolution of inquiry, moved by Senator Johnson of California and carried in the Senate, is as follows:

Reunited Czecho-Slovaks

The decision to send American troops to Siberia was taken in connection with the Japanese Government and in co-operation with the other Allied Powers in order to save the Czecho-Slovaks and also for the purpose of stiffening the resistance to the Bolsheviki on the part of the Siberians and to assist these Siberians and those in Siberia from Russia to establish a government of law and order in which they might be willing to accept assistance.

The despatch of the American and Allied troops resulted in the reunion of the scattered regiments of Czecho-Slovaks and resulted in the substantial elimination in Eastern Siberia of the active efforts of the enemy prisoners of war.

Japan Proposed Railroad Plan

In February, 1919, a plan which had been proposed by Japan for the supervision of the Siberian railroads by an inter-Allied committee was accepted and, at the request of the Provisional Government of Siberia and with the support of Mr. John F. Stevens, there was organised the so-called Russian Railway Corps, composed of American engineers. It was proposed to organise this corps into fourteen skeleton division units, as known in this country, the idea being that these units would serve as practical advisers and assistants on fourteen different sections of the Siberian Railroad and support the Russians by their knowledge of the problems involved in long haul traffic.

The work of the corps began originally in March, 1918, but did not function effectively until in February of the following year, when the Inter-Allied Committee plan was adopted and put into operation.

Recent reports indicate that the service along this railroad has been greatly improved.

Railroads Must Be Guarded

In accepting the plan which called the Inter-Allied Committee into being, it was agreed that some protection should be given the railways by the Allied forces and under this plan the Allied commanders in Siberia established their troops where it was necessary to maintain order, along various section of the railway. General Graves, the American commander, was assigned that section of the line near Vladivostok and near Verchneudinsk.

General Graves is under instructions from the War Department not to interfere in Russian affairs, but only to support Mr. Stevens in his efforts to keep the road open to traffic, this Siberian railroad being the main artery for transportation in Russia and the only accessible route to European Russia.

In concluding his statement, President Wilson said:

Siberians Must Be Helped

"The population of Siberia, whose resources have been almost exhausted by long years of war and the chaotic conditions which have existed there, may be protected from a further period of chaos and anarchy only by the restoration of the Siberian Railway and the maintenance of traffic along the line. Partisan bands under leaders who have no settled connection with any of the organised Governments and other bands under leaders whose allegiance to any settled authority is apparently temporary and transitory, are constantly menacing the operation of the railway and threatening the permanence of the reorganised traffic.

"The situation of the people of Siberia, in the meanwhile, is that they have neither shoes nor warm clothing. They are pleading for agricultural machinery and for many of the simplest articles of commerce, upon which their own domestic economy depends and which is necessary to fruitful and productive industry among them.

"Having contributed their quota to the Russian armies which fought the Central Empires for three years, they now look to the Allies and the United States for economic assistance.

War Department Selling Supplies

"The population of Western Siberia and the forces of Admiral Kolchak are entirely dependent upon these railways. The Russian representatives in this country have succeeded in shipping large quantities of Russian supplies to Siberia and the Secretary of War is now entering into contracts with the great co-operative societies which operate throughout European and Asiatic Russia to ship further supplies to meet the needs of the civilian population.

"The Kolchak Government is also endeavoring to arrange for the purchase of medical and other Red Cross supplies from the War Department and the American Red Cross is attempting that form of relief for which it is organised.

"All the elements among the population of Siberia are looking to the United States for assistance, and this assistance cannot be given to the population of Siberia, and ultimately to Russia, if the purpose entertained for the past two years of restoring the railway traffic be now abandoned.

Stevens Goes With Troops

"The presence of American troops is a vital element in this effort. The services of Mr. Stevens depend upon it and it is a point of serious moment that the plan proposed by Japan expressly provides that Mr. Stevens and all the foreign railway experts be withdrawn when the troops are withdrawn.

"From these observations it will be seen that the purpose of the continuance of the American troops in Siberia is that we, with the concurrence of the great Allied Powers, may keep open this necessary artery of trade and extend to the vast population of Siberia the economic aid essential to it in peace time but indispensable under the conditions that have followed the prolonged and exhausting participation by Russia in the war against the Central Powers.

"This participation was obviously of incalculable value to the Allied cause and in a very particular way commends this exhausted people who have suffered from it to such an assistance as we can render to bring about their industrial and economic rehabilitation."

COMMONS GETS MEASURE AIMED AT PROFITEERS

Local And Appeal Tribunals To Deal With Offenders To Be Established

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 7.—The profiteering bill was introduced in the House of Commons yesterday.

Replying to criticisms of his absence from the House of Commons, Mr. Lloyd George said that, with the pressure of subjects demanding close study, for instance coal, trade policy, profiteering, agricultural policy and Ireland it was impossible for him to take part in debates in the House daily.

Mr. Lloyd George announced that the Government's scheme for Ireland would be introduced as soon as possible but not before the recess.

Purposes Are Stated

London, August 6.—Sir Auckland Geddes stated today at a meeting of the House of Commons Profiteering Committee that the Government proposed establishing a central authority to deal with profiteering, and that new powers would be asked for and penalties increased.

The Government, he said, proposed to establish local tribunals and county appeal tribunals similar to those under the Military Service Act to deal with profiteering by retailers in uncontrolled articles of daily use. These tribunals would be empowered to inflict fines up to £20 or to refer the case to a court of summary jurisdiction which would be empowered to inflict penalities up to £200 or six months' imprisonment. It was also proposed to empower the Board of Trade to introduce regulations regarding prices in trades in which profiteering occurred and impose severe penalties for breaches of these regulations.

Formation Of Tribunal

The Government proposed, Sir Auckland Geddes continued, that there should be a tribunal under a chairman with legal training, with a number of deputy chairmen. The tribunal would consist of representatives of trade organisations, including trade unions, and it would sit in small panels, each panel being under a chairman or deputy-chairman and consisting of persons knowing the case to be investigated. The Board of Trade regulations regarding prices would be issued on the recommendation of the tribunal.

Sir Auckland Geddes' announcement surprised members of the House of Commons, as it had not been expected that the Government would act without waiting for the report of the Profiteering Committee, which was only appointed a fortnight ago and first met on the fifth. Sir Auckland Geddes today told the chairman that it was now unnecessary for the Committee to pursue the inquiry.

Decorated Service Men Among Police Recruits

Arrive On Agapenor Sunday With Shanghai Residents Who Return To Positions After Service With British Armies In Many Theaters

Twenty-seven recruits for the Shanghai Municipal Police Department, all of them coming to the East after service with either the British army or navy, and seven local men returning from war service arrived in Shanghai Sunday on the Blue Funnel steamer Agapenor.

Included in the group that start training today for berths with the police are two men who wear the Military Medal and a third who won the Distinguished Conduct Medal. Four were lieutenants in the British army. Thirteen of them were wounded. They will be at Gordon Road Depot for eight weeks and Inspector Young of the District will be in charge of the training.

Lieutenant E. A. Roberts, a Shanghai man to win the D. C. M. while serving with the Royal Field Artillery; Lieut. T. W. R. Wilson of the 9th Black Watch, who was wounded and gassed, returning to his position with the Public Works Department; Mr. H. L. Pearce, of the North China Daily News, who left here in 1916 and was wounded; Lieut. A. A. Martin of Messrs. Jardine, Matheson and Company, who saw service with the Chinese Labor Corps; Sgt. W. H. Ferris, after service as a machine gunner in France and Italy; Mr. A. W. White, and Lieut. W. Conlon, of the Electricity Department of the S.M.C., arrived on the Agapenor with the police recruits.

Sergeant Ferris was with the British Cigarette Company here and saw much service in France before he was gassed and subsequently invalided from the army. Lieut. Conlon was two and a half years in France and was wounded and gassed. Mr. White returns to rejoin Messrs. Llewellyn and Company, Ltd.

Police Recruits Are Young

The oldest man in the group of recruits for the police boasts 27 years. All the others are young and two of them were ordered out of the army when officers learned their correct ages. Some are 20 years old, others, 22. The average is less than 23 years of age.

Every man has seen active fighting and many have been at the Front since 1914. Two are of the "Contemptibles" and most of the others enlisted in August of 1914.

None will talk war. The three who received decorations say they were "lucky."

Lieutenant C. Bishop of the 8th Middlesex Regiment, D.C.M., wears five wound stripes. Twice in 1916, twice in 1917 and once in 1915 he was hit and three of the five wounds were in the head. Sergeant Major Jack Allen of the Middlesex Regiment was wounded twice in 1916 and 1917. He was gassed in 1915. Allen wears the Military Medal as does H. J. Taylor, also wounded.

Many of the men have remarkable stories. Their records extend from France to East Africa, from the North Sea to Gallipoli.

Sergeant Harry Hotchkiss was in the first British Expeditionary Forces. Thin lines of English were then attempting to stem the onslaughts of a German army which had triumphantly marched through Belgium. He has no commission. He was not decorated. But soon after the "Contemptibles" were in the front lines, Hotchkiss was placed in charge of a detail of 30 men and was told to attack. He led the men over the top and they faced a punishing fire from German machine guns. Hotchkiss reached the German wire and when he turned around to look for his detail, saw 29 dead bodies. For 24 hours he lay in front of the German wire and then made his way back to his own lines. Hotchkiss is 22 years old.

H. MacGregor, one of the recruits, is 20 years old. He enlisted in the British Army in 1914 and stayed in a year before officers found out that he was under age. He was discharged. Another who joined the army before he reached the required age limit, E. S. Cartwright, served for a while in 1915, was ordered out and enlisted in the air force when he became of age a year ago.

W. J. Ryle, 22 years old, was wounded in the Gallipoli landing. J. H. Cosson was invalided out of the Royal Garrison Artillery and then joined the navy; Lieut. C. B. Henry, wounded twice and gassed, won a commission in the Gordon Highlanders; R. C. Hall was a lieutenant in the Gloucester Regiment, and J. E. Fulton, wounded, was a lieutenant in the crack Seaforth Highlanders.

A stretcher bearer in the Royal Army Medical Corps for four years and six months, A. B. Hogg was never hit. The oldest man of the group, B. Sillis, went to France with the "Contemptibles" and he, too, escaped without a wound. Sillis was in the regular army at the time war was declared and was one of the first to reach France. B. H. Munson, 21 years, was four years in the London Scottish and was not wounded.

H. J. Hooper was four years and 36 days with the colors. Hooper was in the Royal Horse Artillery and was wounded. Other wounded men are P. A. Emery of the Middlesex Regiment, wounded twice; A. G. Craig, King's Royal Rifle Corps; A. McGillivray, wounded twice in four years; J. A. Young, machine gunner; H. Dipose, who enlisted in the Buffs in 1914, and W. Hotchkiss, wounded twice while with the Royal Fusiliers in East Africa.

Naval men include C. Young, R. H. Beer, and H. A. Flower. All were with the Grand Fleet in the North Sea. W. N. Webb was in the Royal Marine Artillery, G. E. Knight was a sapper in the Royal Engineers and G. W. Dudley held a staff billet.

More Expected Today

Nine more recruits, including R. M. Tinkler of the Royal Fusiliers, who won the Distinguished Conduct Medal, are expected from Hongkong today. The men are accompanied by three former members of the force who are returning from service: Sergeant E. L. Gladwish, A. J. P. Coghlan and E. E. Pilbeam. Sergeant Gladwish won the D. C. M.

Captain R. M. J. Martin, who left here in 1915, returns on the Empress of Japan this afternoon. He will resume his duties as assistant superintendent of the local police department.

HARBIN RAIL STRIKE BEING BROUGHT TO END

Workmen At Big Stations On Line Resuming Work And Situation Is Improved

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Harbin, August 9.—The railway situation since yesterday has greatly improved. The short visit of General Djan to the workshops resulted in the return of the Chinese workmen to work, and their example was immediately followed by most of the Russian workmen. Work has also been resumed at most of the big stations on the line and at Vladivostok. The prevailing opinion is that these strikers formed part of a cleverly-worked Bolshevik scheme which has now evidently failed. The energetic interference of the Chinese authorities has met with general satisfaction here, being a strong moral blow to the Bolshevists, who bestowed their last hopes on the Far East.

Commission of the portion of the line west of the Khyber, where the recent Afghan aggression happened, and accepts such a boundary as the British Commission will lay down. Meanwhile the British troops will remain in their present position until the demarcation has been effected.

Closes Wanton War

Simla, August 9.—The fact that the Afghan Delegates had agreed to sign the Peace Treaty was not known till the last moment. The period of negotiation has been one of much tension. The ceremony was very simple. Two copies were signed, one for the Indian and the other for the Afghan Government.

Sir Hamilton Grant said that the Treaty closed a wanton and unprofitable war and paved the way for a renewal of friendship. But during the next six months the Afghans must show a whole-hearted co-operation and no petty pinpricks and intrigues would be permitted. The Government deeply deplored the death of Habibullan, and is anxious now to treat his people leniently and to give his son a chance.

Sir Hamilton Grant thanked the Afghans for their courtesy during the Conference and asked the Delegates to convey the Viceroy's satisfaction concerning the conclusion of peace to the Amir.

The Delegates leave Rawal Pindi on Monday.

Every day your complexion

pays toll to dust and wind

The rough, cold winds chap and roughen the skin; dry heated air draws and parches it. The constant strain under which we live—the ceaseless activity of crowded days, the constant effort, the lack of rest—all these things take daily toll of the complexion.

You can protect your complexion from the wear and tear of both summer and winter—can prevent that tired, drawn look from appearing in your face, by giving your skin the care it needs.

Apply a little Pond's Vanishing Cream when you motor or travel; rub it in lightly. This will protect the sensitive pores from grit and grime, will keep your skin free from that parched feeling that generally follows exposure to dust and dirt.

It has a wonderfully beautifying effect, and as a base for powder it is so effective that one powdering is sufficient for the whole evening.

This fragrant, dewy cream contains a skin-softening ingredient of great value, one that skin specialists recognize as most efficient in keeping the skin supple, for giving it the transparent freshness everyone admires.

FINANCIAL SITUATION GRAVE, COMMONS IS TOLD

Chancellor Asserts Outlays Must Be Reduced And Production Increased

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 7.—In the House of Commons today, replying to members emphasising the seriousness of the financial situation, Mr. Austen Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, denounced the treasonable circles which are endeavoring by direct action to overthrow Parliament. The Government would take whatever steps were required in that connection. The situation needed the goodwill and active assistance of the whole community. Expenditure must be cut down and production increased or we should become nationally bankrupt.

The budget position, as regards the balance between expenditure and revenue, had become seriously less favorable than when the budget was introduced.

Many new large items of expenditure had been sanctioned; namely, pensions amounting to half our pre-war expenditure, increased pay for the army, navy and police and bonuses for civil servants. Moreover there was the continuance of the Ministry of Food, involving its trading capital of £70,000,000, which consequently was not yet returnable to the treasury.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer emphasised that next year things would not become normal and foreshadowed fresh taxation unless drastic reductions in expenditure were effected. He appealed to the House to exercise the closest vigilance with regard to new expenditure. It was his policy to reduce and end subsidies as soon as possible.

He emphasised the need for increasing production at reduced cost in order to get an entry into good markets that could pay for supplies.

The adverse exchange with America was a danger signal: unless it was rectified shortly every one from the richest to the poorest was in for a very bad time.

The Government was determined to stop reckless waste, institute a rigorous economy and cut down expenditure. There was no need to fear the Government embarking upon a hazardous policy of nationalising everything. There was nothing in the situation beyond the Nation's control, given the resolution, public spirit, and unity shown during the war.

Replying to Sir Donald Maclen with regard to the Irish question Mr. Lloyd George declared that the Government would submit its policy to Parliament at the earliest opportunity after the recess. He could not accept the suggestion made by the Labor members meanwhile to withdraw the troops from Ireland as the Government's responsibility for law and order was plain. The present national position was grave owing to the prevailing spirit of irresponsibility but if everybody throughout the land put forth their best exertions as they did during the war we should emerge triumphantly. He urged cutting down expenditure to the narrowest limits.

Bogus Coins Found In Raid By Police

Two Chinese were arrested and 17 counterfeit Yuan Shih-k'ai dollars, 76 counterfeit twenty-cent pieces, moulds and other counterfeiting material were confiscated Sunday night when a detail from the Central police station raided a house at 150 Sing Dong Long, an alleyway off Honan Road.

A man and woman were in the house when the police entered and after they were placed under arrest the former attempted to escape by jumping from a second-story window. He was injured by the fall and was recaptured.

AGITATION IN BRITAIN FINANCED FROM OUTSIDE

Information Is Obtained By Scotland Yard That Money Was Sent From Hungary

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 6.—Scotland Yard has definite information that foreign money is financing agitations in Great Britain with the object of overthrowing the existing system of Government. A certain Swede, who has made full confession, arrived a week ago from Hungary with £6,000. It is alleged that he delivered the amount to a well-known extremist, who denies having received it. The Swede has been deported.

GETZ BROTHERS PLAN EXPANSION IN ORIENT

Branches Will Be Opened In London And New York Also, Is Announced

Additions to the staff of the Shanghai office, the opening of branches in London and New York and an expansion program in the Far East which will be accompanied by the establishment of branch offices at Tientsin, Singapore, Bombay, Calcutta and Soerabaya were announced yesterday by Mr. E. B. Waite, manager for the Orient of Messrs. Getz Brothers and Company of the Orient, Ltd.

Mr. Waite has returned from a year's trip of investikation which took him to India, Java, the Philippine Islands and the Straits Settlements and while on the trip made arrangements for the opening of the new Getz branches. Mr. Waite leaves for the United States on the Pacific Mail liner Colombia, due to sail from Shanghai next Saturday. He will later go to New York and then to London to open offices for Getz Brothers there.

The company is to enlarge its export business and with this end in view announce the extension to New York and London. Most of the export business will be handled in these two offices.

The company, which was one of the first American firms to come to the Far East, has so extended its activities during the last few years that it now engages in the exporting and importing of general products.

Soon after Mr. Waite arrives in San Francisco 16 men now employed in the main office at San Francisco will leave for the Far East as the nucleus of the staffs for the four new offices. They will later be followed by others.

At present Getz Brothers is established in eight cities of the Far East: Shanghai, Manila, Hongkong, Vladivostok, Kobe, Yokohama, Saigon and Canton. The offices at Calcutta, Bombay, Singapore, Soerabaya and Tientsin are to be established January 1.

EPIDEMIC ON DECREASE, FIGURES FOR WEEK SHOW

Number Of Deaths Is 48 Less Than For Previous Week; Fewer Cases Noted

The marked drop in fatalities and cases reported in the choleraic epidemic last week indicates, in the opinion of Health Department officials and medical men generally, that the worst of the epidemic is over.

The number of deaths last week among Chinese victims of the disease was 102, as against 150 for the week previous, while the number of cases cared for at the Summer Diseases Hospital shows a decrease throughout the week. There are still quite a number of cases among the Japanese community, Dr. Stanley said yesterday, but no further deaths have been reported. Three foreign cases other than Japanese were reported and these are believed to be out of danger. Another encouraging feature in the health report for the past week is the decrease in the total of deaths from all causes among the Chinese population. The total number of deaths was 327, while that for the previous week was 414.

Laboratory tests made by the Health Department and St. Luke's Hospital have failed to show any further cases of true Asiatic cholera than the two previously reported, it was stated yesterday and the belief of the Health Officer is that if laboratory analysis were possible in the districts effected they would show the epidemics reported in Manchuria and in other parts of China to be largely of the same character as that here—practically all choleraic diarrhoea.

Only three new cases were admitted at St. Luke's Hospital yesterday and a total of 18 were being cared for in the free ward. The ward is now pretty well filled up and another supplementary ward is being prepared to care for other cases if needed.

The educational campaign by the Health Department and by the St. Luke's authorities and other organisations is being maintained. This campaign is now being pointed to by physicians as probably the biggest factor in the cutting down of the local epidemic.

Harbin Takes Action To Check Epidemic

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Harbin, August 9.—Cases of cholera in the Chinese town have caused the administration of the railway to work out measures to prevent the epidemic spreading and to organise medical assistance.

Appears At Newchwang

Peking, August 8.—Official reports state that cholera has made its appearance at Harbin and at Newchwang, where the outbreak is severe.

INDUSTRIAL SITUATION IN LIVERPOOL IMPROVED

Likelihood Of General Strike Considered Remote And City Resumes Normal Life

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 7.—The industrial situation in Liverpool is remarkably brighter and the possibility of a general strike is now considered remote. The city has resumed its normal life with the exception of the trams and bakeries which have not resumed work. The Dockers' Union and the Municipal Workers have followed the example of the railway-men in decided not to support the police.

A deputation of Trade Unionists had an interview with the Lord Mayor today and requested the reinstatement of the dismissed police. The Mayor declined to intervene in the dispute but undertook to advocate calling a conference between the deputation and the Watch Committee.

Passes Police Bill

London, August 7.—The House of Commons has passed the third reading of the Coal Mines Bill establishing a seven-hour day.

Workers Returning

London, August 7.—The strike situation is better. The engine-drivers at Nine Elms are returning to work and also most of the tube strikers are coming in. The situation in Liverpool is quieter. The position in Yorkshire is unchanged.

Quit Police Union

London, August 7.—The Birkenhead police have resigned from the Police Union, this being the first force to do so in the strike area.

The Yorkshire coal owners and miners conferred yesterday and decided to ask the Coal Controller to meet representatives of both sides.

London, August 7.—By an overwhelming majority the City of London police have forwarded to the Commissioner a resolution of thanks with regard to his support for better pay, repudiating the strikers and recording their unswerving loyalty.

London, August 6.—At a meeting of the executive of the National Union of Railwaymen it was decided not to support the police strike and to urge all railwaymen who have struck work to resume immediately.

Report In Commons

London, August 6.—In the House of Commons today Mr. Edward Shortt, Home Secretary, stated that the situation in Liverpool shows no material change. Attempts at looting this morning were suppressed. The attempts of certain persons to cause a complete cessation of work and to hand the city over to the mercy of the criminal classes had hitherto failed. The Government had every confidence that the authorities in Liverpool would take every step, however severe, to preserve law and order and to protect the citizens from sinister attacks. The Government was prepared to give them every assistance. He mentioned that attempts to burn the docks had been unsuccessful.

NEW LIGHT IS THROWN ON TSINANFU EXECUTIONS

Report Is Killing Of Three On Tuchun's Order Was Religious Reprisal

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Peking, August 7.—In connection with the killing and torturing of three Chinese boycotters at Tsinanfu on the 5th of this month your correspondent is informed that this action by General Ma Liang is more in the nature of religious revenge than a suppression of boycott activity. General Ma is a Mohammedan and had recently presented to the mosque of his particular sect a number of wooden tablets with inscriptions. These tablets had been hung up inside the mosque when the members of another sect of Mohammedans, of which the tortured three were prominent followers, attacked Ma's mosque, tore down the tablets and completely ruined the place. This incensed General Ma to such a degree that he had the three most prominent marauders arrested, charged them with furthering the boycott and put them to death after they had been tortured to the limit of their endurance.

This form of punishment is fairly common among Chinese Mohammedans as a religious reprisal, but is justified neither by law nor by present day Chinese practice as a penalty for criminal or political offenses. Hence it is regarded here as certain that General Ma took advantage of the declaration of martial law in Tsinanfu to get even with those who had desecrated his mosque. Being ignorant of the rights of an officer under martial law, Ma took the charge of furthering the boycott as his excuse for putting the three away; and, as he is extremely pro-Japanese, Ma was thus able to kill two birds with one stone.

The Government is preparing to investigate the matter, and it is likely that General Ma will find his path in Shantung a difficult one henceforth.

PEKING RECEIVES REPORT OF AFFAIRS IN MONGOLIA

Chinese Expeditionary Force Numbering About 4,000 In Plateau Country

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Peking, August 7.—According to the report of a foreign officer who has just returned to Peking after an expedition of three weeks to Urga and back General Chu Chi-hsiang, who is in command of Hsu Shu-cheng's expedition to Outer Mongolia, has arrived in Urga with 18 motor-cars containing a body-guard of 40 men. General Chu and Chen Yi, the Chinese Amban at Urga, are in close touch with the Mongolian dukes, who have been called to their capital for a national conference and from all appearances the Chinese and Mongolian leaders are on friendly terms and working well together.

The same authority states that after careful observation he estimated the Chinese expeditionary force along the Mongolian plateau at from 3,500 to 4,000 men, of whom some 1,500 are cartmen, camel-drivers and cavalry. The advance guard of these forces, some 300 strong, were at Uda, well on their way to Urga, over a week ago, while the rest of the army is straggling along between the Kalgan border of the plateau and Uda. In Kalgan itself Little Hsu still has from 2,500 to 3,000 men, all of whom are undergoing severe training and are ready to leave for the plateau at any time.

The Mongolians in Urga and along the route made no objection to the advance of the Chinese expedition, and everywhere there seemed to be the best of feeling between the Chinese and the natives.

SARGON RICE EXPORTS TO CHINA SUSPENDED

Belief Expressed Country May Be Forced To Buy Back Cereal From U.S.

(American Press Wireless)

Hongkong, August 11.—The Saigon correspondent of the Hongkong Daily Press advises that the French authorities after September, will not grant rice export-permits for any destination other than France.

It is rumored that some Japanese firms in Hongkong have purchased five to six thousand bags of Saigon rice at $22.50 a picul direct from big Chinese importers.

The American market has not been able to follow the rapid advances in Oriental quotations and a local rice exporter has received a cable from America offering to ship back three to five thousand tons of rice at a price which works out considerably below our ruling quotations. The day may yet come when we should be forced to buy back rice from America to keep us going until the advent of the new season.

Banking Service with AMERICA —direct and personal

EXPORTERS or importers now engaged in, or thinking of, trade with America would do well to consider not only the special nature of our facilities, but also the personal interest we take in every one of our customers' transactions.

First of all, we offer direct banking service—without intermediary dealings, or unnecessary delays.

Equally important is our personal service. Every transaction is followed through, both here and in America, by our own representatives with a personal interest, the value of which is evident in the service rendered.

May we talk with you about America?

Premier, Asking Cash Grants, Praises British Officers

Labor Party's Motion To Cut Aggregate Sum Is Defeated; Votes Of Thanks Offered

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 6.—In the House of Commons this afternoon Mr. Lloyd George, in moving the resolution for money grants to the commanders of the British sea, land and air forces, emphasised the fact that the British scale of war pensions was incomparably the most generous in Europe, aggregating 93 millions sterling yearly or half the national expenditure before the war.

The Prime Minister urged that exceptional rewards ought to be given to those who had borne exceptional responsibilities with exceptional success.

He paid a tribute to Sir Douglas Haig's tenacity, dauntlessness and readiness to subordinate himself to the demands of his country, and he recalled now Lord French, at Ypres, fought with small forces one of the six decisive battles of the war, covering the British army with honor.

The Prime Minister went on to pay a tribute to General Sir Edmund Allenby, "the brilliant commander who won the last and most triumphant crusade," and to Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson, "one of the most gifted soldiers Britain ever possessed." "His vision and gift of organisation," said the Prime Minister, "were one of the greatest assets of Britain in the crisis of 1918."

Others Are Named

"We are indebted to Sir William Robertson that the General Staff was so well organised and rendered such great service during the war. Sir Hugh Trenchard's energy and daring imagination made the Air Force a formidable machine. Sir Maurice Hankey's services were known to few but they were unsurpassed. He showed remarkable foresight with regard to the requirements of the war and was indeed an organiser of victory."

The Prime Minister also paid a tribute to the brilliant leadership of Generals Plumer, Horne, Byng, Rawlinson and Birdwood without which, he said, it would have been impossible to turn the tide of battle in 1918. Sir David Beatty, Mr. Lloyd George continued, had established finally the supremacy of the British navy. Lord Jellicoe's services before and during the war had been incalculable.

Admiral Sir Frederick Sturdee, by the brilliant Falkland Islands action, had rid the Pacific and Atlantic of German raiders. Vice Admiral Sir John de Robeck's services were well known. Rear Admiral Sir Reginald Tyrwhitt was the outstanding representative of the torpedo flotilla whose ceaseless vigilance ultimately baffled the enemy's designs.

Rear Admiral Sir Roger Keyes would live in naval history as the chief figure in the Zeebrugge exploit, Admiral Sir Charles Madden had rendered invaluable aid in naval organisation. This, concluded the Prime Minister, was but a small part of the recognition we owed these great men.

Reduction Is Urged

Mr. Adamson, leader of the Labor Party, then moved a reduction of the vote to £200,000, to be divided in the same proportions as proposed, on the ground that the grants were out of all proportion to the monetary regards given to the rank and file. The amendment was rejected by 288 votes to 66.

Mr. T. W. Inskip, Coalition, drew attention to the disparity of the amount granted to Sir William Birdwood compared with the other army commanders.

Mr. Johnson Hicks, Unionist, drew attention to the omission of the names of General Sir Charles Monro, who carried out the evacuation of Gallipoli, afterwards going to India as Commander-in-Chief; and of Major General Sir Frederic Sykes, who was chief of the air force in the field.

Mr. Lloyd George, replying to the labor criticism of the grants, laid stress on the fact that £100,000,000 were being spent on pensions for the men and their dependents.

Resolution Thanking Forces Introduced In Commons

London, August 6.—In the House of Commons today the Prime Minister moved the following resolutions of thanks:

"To the officers, petty officers and men of the Navy and Royal Marines for their sleepless watch over the seas and the courage, resource and devotion with which, during four years of constant peril, they maintained the blockade of the enemy's coast, convoyed armies from the most distant lands and defended the commerce of the civilised world against the craft and subtlety of a ruthless foe.

"To the officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the armies in the field for the matchless valor and endurance with which, amid circumstances of unexampled hardship, they sustained the shock of war in many climes; for the good humor, clemency and patience of their bearing; for the undaunted spirit which carried them through four years of strenuous toil to complete a splendid victory.

"To the officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the Air Force for their brilliant daring and conspicuous services overseas and on land.

"To the gallant troops from the Dominions overseas, from India, and from the Crown Colonies for the promptitude with which they responded to the call for justice and freedom and for the noble part they played in conjunction with their comrades in the British Islands in securing the triumph of right over wrong.

"To the women of the medical and other auxiliary services for their devotion in tending the sick and wounded and for other duties faithfully and bravely discharged.

"To the officers and men of the mercantile marine for the fine and fearless seamanship whereby our people were preserved from want and our cause from disaster.

"That this House both acknowledge with deep submission and reverence the heroism of whose who have fallen in the service of their country and tenders its sympathy to their relatives in the hour of their sorrow and their pride."

Gives Praise To Foch

Mr. Lloyd George also moved a resolution recording a profound sense of admiration and gratitude for the supreme service rendered to the British Nation by Field Marshal Foch as Generalissimo of the Allied armies.

Referring to Marshal Foch, the Premier said his genius was recognised by friend and foe. The war would have been won without Marshal Foch but not in 1918 and what winning the war in 1918 meant to the world was difficult to calculate. The gratitude of the civilised world therefore went out to him.

The Premier paid a notable tribute to Mr. Asquith and Sir Edward Grey for accepting the challenge of Prussianism in 1914 and thus saving Great Britain from shame. "We should have been a prosperous but a despised people had we not entered the war."

"The way in which millions then rallied to the flag is one of the most thrilling, one of the most inspiring episodes in the history of the world and will always be associated with the name of Lord Kitchener. The dauntlessness of these men ranked with the iron infantry of Marlborough and Wellington and with the daring seamen of Drake at sea."

Referring to the mercantile marine the Premier said that the horrors that our mariners had to bear were sometimes worse than the battlefield.

Everywhere, on land and sea and in the air, men had sustained a strain beyond anything in history. Moreover, we fought better and were more formidable in 1918 than ever.

Tribute To Women

Mr. Lloyd George especially tributed the invaluable services rendered by women.

Regarding the contribution of the Dominions, they had only to pursue the truly dazzling list of victories won by the men from over-seas to realise the greatness of their share. "We rejoice as much here as they now that through the valor of their sons they have won a permanent place in the fraternity of nations."

"India's remarkable contribution, notably in the East, has won her a new claim to our consideration, a claim so irresistible that it ought and must overpower all prejudice and timidity which might stand in the way of her progress." The Premier also alluded to the praiseworthy contribution made by her leaders.

The Premier referred in eloquent terms to the silent sufferings and agonies of the multitudes of men and women who bore the rack and strain in their homes, and concluded:

"All classes suffered alike; no class can point the finger of reproach at another. A nation whose men and women have shown such splendid qualities in the hour of the country's need shall get together again in the case of a more subtle menace to save the Motherland from danger."

The motions, which were supported by the Liberal and Labor Leaders, were passed unanimously.

Lords Pass Measure

London, August 7.—The House of Lords passed unanimously the same motion of thanks to the forces as the House of Commons.

Earl Curzon, moving the motion, said that this was not the first time the Indian armies had come to our aid. They have been fighting our battles in almost every part of Asia and Africa for at least half a century. The million men who came from the Dominions were an inestimable moral asset which was indelibly impressed on the conscience of the world. He might say the same of India. It could not be said that India had not proved her loyalty. The Indian troops arrived in France almost in the nick of time and without them some of our greatest victories would not have been won.

Lord Curzon paid a tribute to the services of the Crown Colonies and Protectorates, remarking that where they could not find fighting troops they found carriers and labor battalions for the front.

London, August 8.—Samuel Montagu's Weekly Silver Report states that the China exchanges have shown increasing strength. The official Shanghai rate is 5-7½ but actual business is being done at considerably higher rates. This has imparted a good tone to silver and caused a shortage of supplies for ordinary market requirements, which are somewhat considerable.

And if the Allies permit such counter-revolution with the aid of troops of any nation associated with the Allies, then they lay themselves open to the charge of turning back world progress a full century and creating a parallel with the noxious Holy Alliance: that other league of Powers formed originally for the purpose of maintaining peace and then using its strength to crush movements for freedom throughout Europe. Let us fight Bolshevism if we are convinced it is a doctrine threatening the social order, but not by counter-revolutions replacing the sinister autocracies which produced Bolshevism, not only in Russia but throughout Eastern Europe. Otherwise we shall have made a mockery of self-determination and smirched with an indelible blot the honor of the nations that entered this war and gave their blood in the name of liberty.

Causes Of Race Troubles In The United States

A short telegram from the United States dealing with the labor situation there throws high light on the recent racial disturbances in Washington and Chicago which before had been inexplicable. Trouble between negroes and whites heretofore has been caused either by indignation against crimes committed by individual negroes or by industrial reasons. The serious battle that occurred in East St. Louis three years ago was purely industrial and gave forewarning of even more serious trouble to follow.

After the sudden growth of war industries throughout the United States and the cessation of the inflow of immigrant labor from Europe there was a shortage of unskilled labor in the North. As a result there was wholesale colonisation of Southern negroes in Northern industrial centers at the instigation of Northern factory owners. These negro laborers came from purely agricultural districts, had no knowledge of industrial conditions or labor organisation and were easily exploited to work long hours for small pay. This naturally produced bitter resentment among the white laborers with whom they competed and whom they often threw out of work, being willing to work for lower pay. In East St. Louis the white workers struck. More negroes were imported. In the resultant tension fighting between negroes and whites broke out, which flared into a pitched battle lasting for days. rest and discontent; it is an old stratagem. In America the System may yet be forced to adopt the negro to fulfill that purpose. If it does it will have a great horror to answer for before the conscience of the world. No war entails the terrible consequences of race war.

A Plea For The Restoration Of Good Will Between China And Japan

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir: The war having come to an end in conformity with the desires of the Allies, the dove of peace is hovering over the lands which were only a short time ago theaters of bloodshed and unexplicable horrors. Along with the peace has come the sanctimonious shadow of the League of Nations and once more humanity basks in the sunshine of peace and good will. The hearts of the bereaved families are crowned with the lights of satisfaction that their relations laid down their lives for the common good of humanity, cementing the foundations of the world peace with their blood.

In the midst of the world rejoicing the Chinese, ever boastful of his peaceful spirit, has created a rift in the lute by not signing the peace treaty and clouded the horizon of the Far East by creating and disseminating a spirit of racial antipathy against Japan, his next door neighbor. Strikes have come and gone and malicious rumors against the peaceful Japanese have had their day. The Chinese Government has yielded partially to the irresponsible student agitators recognising a weapon which can any moment be turned against the government.

Events come and go but the impressions left by them last long. The impartial observer cannot but remember that the Japanese during the last strikes and commotion has proved himself to be a thorough gentleman. More than 50 of the local Japanese were assaulted and humiliated on different occasions without any provocation whatsoever by the Chinese but not on a single occasion has the Japanese violated the law or returned a tit-for-tat. The average Japanese is an expert in the art of self-defense and a match for a Chinese, but the law abiding spirit and the teachings of Buddhism have endowed him with the spirit of self-control. Mikado, who symbolises all that is good and venerable in the outer world is dearest and holiest to the Japanese. Any insult to Mikado's person, picture or name is simply unbearable to a Japanese. But on the occasion of the strikes when some of the fanatical Chinese, violating all principles of humanity and moral laws, offered insults to the Emperor, still the Japanese did not take the law in his hand.

Why does the Chinese hate the Japanese? On account of the Shantung question? Shantung Tsingtau will be returned and China perhaps would have got it back if she had signed the peace treaty. Japan is going to annex as she has done Korea? There is absolutely no foundation for this hypothesis and Japan has no territorial ambitions in China. Why then is the Chinese so anti-Japanese? If cleanliness, sweetness of disposition, education, hospitability, spect then the Japanese surely deserves to be respected as a brother by the Chinese. China has pledged herself to the Open Door Policy. But the boycott of the Japanese is a direct violation of that pledge. Still Japan has patiently tolerated thinking that China will realise her mistake and give up the mischievous policy. The Chinese employes in Japanese firms are treated with all consideration due to them and the Chinese living in Japan are enjoying the protection of the Japanese law like Japanese subjects; there is no vindictiveness in the Japanese character and his toleration is simply unbounded. China is called "Heavenly Nation" and her civilisation is based on the principle of peace and good will. Why then this spirit of animosity and unfriendliness to a sister nation? What will it lead to? Neither Confucius nor any other of the great Chinese sages has preached the gospel of hatred. Besides, hatred does no good to either party. It is an abnormal element of psychology and if fostered long it leads to destruction. History shows that the Christians who hated the Jews a long time eventually transplanted that hatred into their own society. The mean Jew never retaliated and today he is quite prosperous. Some people believe that it is America who is responsible for this disunion between the two neighbors. But no thinking man will for a moment accept this view. In the first place America is the land of democracy and freedom and she has just saved the world from falling a prey to Germany. Her mission is the advancement of human civilisation and she cannot bother herself and fall from her lofty principles by abetting such international frictions. No sane Japanese believes this and no thinking foreigner credits such an opinion. There may be some jingoes of the U. S. A. who may create such an impression, but then there are black sheep in Japan too.

What then is the cause of this misunderstanding? Only one word can explain the whole thing. It is ignorance and ignorance alone that makes the Chinese hostile to his neighbor.

The world is not safe for democracy as long as this international antipathy exists between China and Japan. Our sacrifices on the battlefield of Europe are in vain if we can not harmonise the interests of the five hundred millions. We are all one and biologically we have sprung up from a common stock. Metaphysically one truth enlightens the hearts of each and all of us.

From the sun to the tiniest worm crawling on the Earth each is sustained by the Same Life Divine. Let us not forget this great truth. Geographical and national differences are not of any importance when the question of human welfare is concerned. It is therefore the duty of every thinking man whether the American, the French, the Britisher, the Asian, to try to reconcile the two nations otherwise there can be no peace on earth.

The fall of the Kaiser has given a death blow to the ambitious politicians' schemes and design. Now is therefore the right moment to do the good work of understanding Japan and China then trying to reconcile them.

Humanity is one complete whole. America or France can not rest in peace as long as there is illwill and hatred in the hearts of the Chinese. It will reflect on the other nations of the world and lead to consequences disastrous to all. Peace makers, come forward. Asiatics, intervene. Missionaries of the prince of peace (Lord Christ), take up the work in hand and restore good will in the Far East.

Yours etc., PEACE MAKER.

The writer of this is neither a Chinese nor a Japanese and is undoubtedly talking in good faith. But he has strung together an amazing series of illogicalities. Nobody ever has accused the Japanese as a people; the acts of their government in China is entirely a different matter. The Japanese people are nearly as much the victims of their government as the Chinese bid fair to be. What basis has "Peacemaker" for the assumption that Japan will return Shantung? And what has its return to do with the ethics of Japan's refusal to do so directly at the peace conference? And what right has he to assume that in the negotiations over the retrocession of Shantung Japan will not demand in exchange the equivalent thereof? Would that not be in keeping with the whole spirit of the Japanese loan campaign? And to talk of the anti-Japanese boycott, a boycott in retaliation for Japan's undisputed underwriting of militarism, corruption, civil war and treason in China, as a violation of the Open Door in China, is unmitigated nonsense. To write in such indifference to plain historical facts as does "Peacemaker" is to do the cause of peace in the Far East a great disservice.—Editor THE CHINA PRESS.

Coal: Modern Industry's Greatest Problem

Its History, Its Place In The Development Of Civilisation, Its Future And Its Potential Substitutes

By C. L. G. Wayne
(Traffic Manager, Shanghai-Nanking Railway)

From the very earliest periods of human existence, even since man was capable of comprehending his sensations, the attributes of fire have exerted a gigantic influence in the various social requirements, some of the earlier nations even worshipping it as a type of Divinity.

Great importance has been attached to heat in every age, and the necessity which has ever impelled man to provide it as a means—an absolutely essential means—of preservation in counteraction of the effects of cold and wet climates; next as a source of comfort and luxury, and later on as an agent of destruction.

The sun, electricity, chemical and mechanical action may be enumerated as the acknowledged sources of heat. Next to the sun's rays, chemical action is the most useful source of heat, the commonest method of generating it being by "combustion" or that change which a body undergoes on being ignited in the air, heat being disengaged, and frequently light, though the latter is not a necessary consequent:

Substances which combine the greatest facility of combustion with the production of a large amount of heat are carbon and hydrogen, and a wise Providence has seen to it that there is never wanting in the atmosphere in unlimited quantities a third, namely oxygen. Regarded as sources of fuel they are all conveniently stored in wood and other vegetable matter, of which continual reproduction ensures a constant supply.

The substances usually employed as fuel are wood, peat, coal and oil in their natural state, or modified by particular treatment. The substance of these in a country must ever constitute its principal source of wealth, more especially as steam plays such a highly important part in manufacturing industry and in locomotion.

In this short article it is proposed briefly to review the origin, nature, and characteristics of coal.

The first discovery of the priceless properties of this valuable commodity is lost in the romance of antiquity. In all probability its use as a means of obtaining warmth was discovered by the inhabitants of the colder Western climes long before they had begun to make any voluntary records of their actions. It was certainly known to the ancient Britons from whom the Romans, always glad to learn anything they thought worth the acquisition from the races they conquered, doubtless gained a knowledge of its value.

Very few records exist before A.D. 1239 when the English King, Henry III, granted a charter to the freemen of Newcastle-on-Tyne to dig coals. On its first introduction to London, being conveyed thither by sea, it met with the same reception as almost every other great benefit has received in its infancy: there was much opposition to it, and many complaints were made that it was a public nuisance and prejudicial to health: indeed King Edward II issued a proclamation against its use, but the absurdity of this was soon recognised and the prohibition was withdrawn.

It was not until the beginning of the fifteenth century that coal was generally burned in London, and another century elapsed before it was in common use throughout the country.

The history of the origin and formation of coal is very wonderful and is one of the Nature's fairy stories. Of the earliest period of the life of the earth unfortunately we have no written records. As the Poet sings:

"And the first Morn of Creation wrote,
What the last Dawn of Reckoning shall read."

Within certain limits, however, very reasonable deductions can be made of what it was like. Of times later on, but still immeasurably remote, the history of the earth is written on the rocks forming its crust, and these may easily be examined by direct observation.

Although commonly called a mineral, coal is not a pure mineral, but is organic matter "mineralised," and geologically speaking it is termed a regular stratified organic rock. Its chemical composition is such as would lead almost to the definite conclusion that it is of vegetal origin, but this is easily and conclusively placed beyond doubt if a piece of ordinary household coal is ground down to a thin slice until transparent and then examined under the microscope. Such an examination reveals the fact that it is composed of the fibres of the stems, branches, leaves, seeds and spores of different kinds of plants.

The vegetation of the Carboniferous epoch was simple but magnificent, consisting of the most rank and luxuriant growth. The greater part of it consisted of ferns, not herbaceous as in the colder Western climate but in the majority of instances growing in the form of trees to a considerable height; plants allied to present day club mosses but different from them because they grew as arborescent plants some of them over sixty feet high: calamites or gigantic replicas of the horse-tails of our day; and trees of the same family as yews and pines. All these went to make up that familiar compressed mass we know by the name of "Coal."

The extent of the coal deposits indicate that the plant life of that age attained its maximum development with a luxuriance unrivalled at any other geological period. There is evidence to show that the vegetation grew in wide expanses of low lying swampy ground, adjacent to shallow seas or lakes, and, judging from the fossils found, life at that far away time was nothing like so varied as it is now. It is a reasonable deduction that the climate was entirely different from frozen and temperate regions where coal is now found, but there were neither plants nor trees bearing flowers or luscious fruits. No butterflies flitted about amongst the vegetation, no birds warbled songs in the trees, and except perhaps for the occasional croaking of reptiles of a type now long extinct, and sometimes the lapping of a sluggish stream, the monotonous silence remained unbroken.

As to the manner in which the strata of the coal deposits have been formed, speaking generally the submergence of the land appears to have been a fundamental requirement for the preservation of the coal vegetation. One theory holds that the various vegetable constituents were originally conveyed by currents to land of a low lying level, estuaries and deltas, where being buried beneath the sand, mud and debris brought down by the currents they were subsequently submitted to the agencies of pressure and heat which effected their carbonisation.

The generally accepted theory, however, is the "in situ" theory which means that the coal was formed out of the vegetal matter on the precise areas where the vegetation grew and flourished, these areas gradually subsiding below water level and being covered with mud and sand which gradually hardened into the shales and sandstones forming the roof of the coal. These shales and sandstones have that bedded structure which shows that they have been deposited under water, being divided into layers lying one on another, and often they bear innumerable impressions of the fronds of ferns and the leaves of plants.

Always under each seam of coal is found a peculiar bed of clay, familiarly known as the "underclay" which differs from the shales and sandstones by being unstratified. This underclay is the soil in which grew the mass of vegetation, and the coal itself represents the slow accumulation of the vegetation compressed and hardened into a minute fraction of its original bulk. The underclay is found to be penetrated by innumerable roots of plants, the stems of trees being found occasionally in an upright position passing through the coal seam and the shale above it.

Coal is found in beds or seams varying in thickness from a mere film or layer less than a quarter of an inch, and is always associated with sandstones, shales and limestone. These strata are known as the Coal measures, or the Carboniferous group.

Often a succession of seams of coal life lie one above the other separated by intervening beds of clay or sand, these strata being formed by the successive alternating minor subsidence below and raising of the land above water level by those movements to which the crust of the earth has been so often subjected, and which are continually but almost imperceptibly going on in our own time.

Light and heat are the essentials of Nature's material world, and are necessary to the growth of plant life. It is a simple truth that during the process of combustion wood, peat, coal or whatever is burnt gives up the exact amount of heat it absorbed during its growth. Thus we may look upon coal as simply so much light and heat of the sun which has been pent up for countless centuries in vegetation.

The extension of the British canal system during the latter half of the eighteenth and the early part of the nineteenth century gave a great impetus to the coal trade, this means of internal communication affording increased facilities for distribution. Other factors contributing to the increased consumption of coal were the practical application of steam: the demand for iron for making into rails, and the introduction of gas for illuminating purposes.

Just before the close of the eighteenth century railways were in their infancy, and it may be interesting to note that railways were invented for the conveyance of coal, and for no other purpose, horses being employed as the motive power until locomotive engines displaced them. With the introduction of railways and steam, a further expansion of the coal and other industries of the Kingdom naturally followed.

Britain could not have advanced in material power and possessions had it not been for her coal supply. The coal fields are the chief seats of her industries, and her copper, iron and lead mines are insignificant in comparison. We have only to look at Ireland to form an idea of what England might have been without her precious gift of black diamonds. What coal there is in Ireland is of poor quality, and a comparatively small quantity is raised.

Look also at the counties of England where no coal is found, and you will find that they are almost wholly given over to agriculture. Lancashire was uncivilised before the discovery of her coal fields, and one of the early English writers refers to her as "that country lying beyond the mountains towards the Western Ocean." He approached the people with a kind of dread, but that he might not seem wanting he ran the risk of the attempt with the hope that the Divine assistance with which he had been hitherto favored would not fail him. That was the state of Lancashire in those days, and what a contrast it makes with its present day importance. In passing it may be set down as a truism that the remarkable progress of the Anglo-Saxon nations and of Germany in industries, in commerce and in wealth has been attributable in a very large measure to their excellent coal supplies.

Before the utilisation of coal for the generation of steam, the convenience of streams determined the sites of manufacturing towns, and the woods and forests were the seats of smelting. Sussex in bygone times was the chief seat of smelting, the iron being made by charcoal, but on the ground of economy the iron trade traveled to the coal fields where the vital commodity, coal, is the cheapest, and there is now not a ton of iron made in Sussex, or anywhere near it.

Coming down to later years, industries which were once flourishing in London are now decadent there, and show improvement in the North, and again the same reason, amongst others, is applicable.

The question has often been asked: Will not Britain sooner or later exhaust her supply of coal? Various estimates have been made as to the length of time her coal fields will last. The output has gone on steadily increasing, and so has the price, and they will probably go on increasing until, at no very remote future time, the price will reach a certain point when manufacturers will find themselves in competition with those of other countries who can get their coal cheaper in markets outside the British Isles.

The world's coal resources as given at the International Geological Congress held in Canada in 1913 are as follows:

Continent	Millions of tons	Percent
North America	5,073,426	68.50
Asia	1,279,586	17.32
Europe	784,190	10.62
Australia and Oceania	170,410	2.35
Africa	57,839	0.78
South America	32,102	0.43
Total	7,397,553	100.00

This total by the way includes 995,587 millions of tons as representing the coal resources of China.

The rate of consumption and export from the United Kingdom is alarming to contemplate. The need for economy is evident and is gradually becoming more recognised. Indeed, it is a public duty to take proper precautions to use coal economically, and get the best possible return for it, that is to say the most force and the most wealth, and the recent appointment of a Royal Commission to consider the question will doubtless result in the provision of safeguards in this respect. When her coal is exhausted England may lose her position as a nation of manufacturers and mercantile enterprises, unless some other power is discovered, or we find the means of economically utilising other powers now available.

In this connection may be mentioned the unlimited power which the Sun without stint is pouring down upon the Earth. All our machinery could be driven from the energy stored up in sunlight which is now running to waste. Another inexhaustible source of power is the tides, or the breaking of the waves on the seashore, only waiting to be harnessed to do all the work of the world. Up to the present these have been looked upon as in the nature of dreams, but dreams sometimes come true. It is certainly within the bounds of possibility, and probability, that man's inventive genius will eventually harness these powers to his use.

Again, attention has been directed to the considerable sums of money spent in the transportation of millions of tons of coal from the collieries to the places of consumption. Proposals have been made in America that generating stations be erected at the mines where the coal could be converted into electrical energy and be transmitted by cable to distant cities.

Like wood and peat, coal in its natural state is found to be unadapted to the wants of many of the arts and manufactures, as owing to the presence of moisture and other ingredients the heat which it evolves during combustion is insufficient, and the same effect is produced by the tendency of most coals to cake and form a coherent mass whereby air is excluded and combustion impeded. To overcome these difficulties and to bring the coal to a state in which it will yield the largest amount of heat recourse is had to carbonisation. By this means the volatile constituents are expelled and the liquid bodies decomposed. These volatile matters are an extremely valuable source of profit as will be seen later on. In fact the coke in the majority of instances is now regarded as the secondary product, and of little consequence as compared with the volatile matters.

Dr. Johnson truly said that there were "qualities in the products of nature yet undiscovered" and these words could aptly have been applied to coal. Gas tar not so very long ago was regarded as a waste product, in fact it was considered a nuisance and no good at all, except perhaps for preserving the garden fence, but now its uses are almost inexhaustible and it is a perfect mine of wealth in itself.

The continually increasing demand for petrol will very soon be beyond the existing supply, and it is apparent that no hope of reduction in price may be looked for under existing conditions, at all events for some time to come. Attention has therefore been directed to the question of a suitable alternative to petrol, and the most likely substitute at present appears to be benzol, which is produced from the distillation of coal by gas companies and colliery companies in the process of making gas and coke. It could not take the place of petrol entirely, however, because the supply of it is only small when compared with the annual consumption of petrol, but all the same there is a great future before it. Apart from its use as a motor spirit, Benzol proves to be a most economical solvent.

Next should be mentioned the beautiful colors which are easily obtainable from this source, and the ladies need have no fear that the failure of last season's flower crop on the continent will mean a scarcity of perfume because the deficiency, and more than the deficiency, will be supplied by substitutes manufactured from—coal tar. And, dear reader, it may be that when you dine today, you will partake of one of the products of coal in the form of a flavoring essence.

PEKING CABINET PROBLEM NO NEARER SOLUTION

President Said To Have Dropped Whole Question Until After Parliament Adjourns

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Peking, August 7.—The President has for the present washed his hands of the question of appointing a cabinet or a delegate to the internal peace conference. It is stated that the President shows great perturbation whenever a new telegram urging the appointment of these officials is brought before him and that he has pessimistically stated that he is willing to resign his post in favor of a stronger man.

He has refused to be interviewed further by anyone wishing to discuss with him the allotment of seats in the new cabinet. He is said to have declared that in view of the opposition of the Anfu members to any and all his suggestions he is unable to discuss the matter further, or in the case of the appointment of a premier to advice on the appointment of members of his cabinet or allotment of seats among the various parties. At a conference with Mr. Kung Hsin-chan yesterday the President stated that he could accept no further responsibility on the matter and that if Mr. Kung wished to accept the nomination of premier he must compromise on the matter of allotting offices as best he could.

The post of internal peace delegate cannot be filled at present. It is believed that the President's present plan is to wait until the adjournment of Parliament before taking further action and then to appoint an acting premier and an internal peace delegate over the heads of the Anfu advisers. It is rumored that Mr. Kung Hsin-chan would in that case be the most likely candidate for the delegate, as being acceptable to the President and able to represent Anfu opinion, while Chou Shu-mou or some other friend of the President might be induced to accept the post of premier temporarily. Parliament is due to adjourn the end of August after long delay. Adjournment may be postponed until the middle of September for completion of work on the budget. Such an extension is opposed by the Chiwei minority party in Parliament and many officials and will only indicate Anfu blockade methods. But if the President and the country can hold on so long, solution may then come.

Mokanshan Association Meeting

The twenty-second annual meeting of the Mokanshan Summer Resort Association was held in the Union Church, Mokanshan, on August 7. The Rev. J. W. Crofoot, president of the association, took the chair and opened the meeting with devotions. Roll call showed 41 votes present or represented by proxies. Three new members signed the Constitution and joined the Association. The Rev. H. M. Smith was appointed recording secretary of the meeting.

The President made a short opening address. The Secretary then read the report of the Directors for the current year, in substance as follows:

The work of most of the committees calls for no special comment. The affairs of the association generally are working satisfactorily and on customary lines.

Our property has been well looked after by the association's caretakers, and our agitation of last year has resulted in a much improved situation as to our bamboo and trees. Tennis courts have been brought into use as needed and the swimming pool has had plenty of water. The library has a good number of new books for both young and old, and the arrangement of the committee whereby the library is open every morning is a decided improvement over conditions of previous years. The activities on behalf of the children show no diminution. Miss Manning has done excellent work in our kindergarten, and voluntary services have provided numerous clubs for children of other ages. The Mokanshan Boy Scouts have been officially recognised by the National Organisation for China.

It is desirable that the work on our roads should be done earlier in the season, but the improvements now being made are evident to all who walk. Some old standing bad stretches have been set right, the Ridge and other roads much improved, and an extension of the Ellipse brings us to the western edge of our mountain at Sunset Point. The Road Committee hopes to cut out a path from the church to the cemetery and monastery. This will make a pleasant walk along the line of what may some day become the main road to Sanchiaopu. The mention of this famous village brings us to transportation. The arrangements of your Committee have been considerably criticised in the Shanghai press. It is not necessary to take up these criticisms again here. The directors feel that we have had a service which except for weather conditions would have been the best in many years. Telegraph and telephone service have not been satisfactory and we are appealing to the authorities for better service.

The tendency of Chinese huts to spring up in undesirable places has caused us concern. We hope to gain some control over the sanitation of these places by the assistance of the local police and we have other plans in mind for dealing with these menaces to the health and comfort of the community. The sanitation committee has very much improved conditions at the association's dumps, and is investigating the possibilities of septic tanks for use at Mokanshan. We have taken steps for the purchase of a piano for our concerts, to be ready next season. Payment will be made from undesignated trust funds of the association, and the amount spent will be replaced from the proceeds of future concerts. We propose to issue before next summer a brief bulletin giving essential information about Mokanshan. We are trying to arrange for the making of an official survey of the mountain. The present double service of soldiers and police is not necessary at Mokanshan and is liable at any time to cause loss to us through division of responsibility for the maintenance of law and order. We have therefore appointed the Executive Committee to take up with the authorities the question of the policing of Mokanshan.

The problem of medical attendance for this summer has been met by Drs. Goddard and Barlow who have given their services at the sacrifice of their own period of recreation. It has been impossible to carry on a dispensary for the Chinese or to use Shademont Hall which was rented for that purpose. Our medical situation is really very serious indeed. Should the volunteer services fail as they have been very near to doing this year, we should have a community of 1,000 people with no doctor available at all.

A committee of the Directors has drawn up a plan by which the various Mission boards whose people are interested in Mokanshan are to be asked to provide in turn a doctor a summer for service here, giving the man who takes the three months Mokanshan duty a month off at some other time of the year. This will give us assurance of medical supply and will relieve the Mission doctors as a body from constant calls and work which often makes their stay at Mokanshan more of a strain than a rest. We are glad to report one great advance in our medical situation. A gift of $1,000 has this year been made to the Association through the Board of Missions of the Northern Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

The result of the census taken July 31 is as follows: Houses occupied, 110; adult occupants, 351; children, 225; total, 576; Chinese employes, 357. By Nationality, American, 342; British, 126; Chinese, 53; German, 25; Russian, 12; others, 18.

The following officers for 1920 were elected, the Secretary being instructed to cast the ballot for them:

President, Rev. J. W. Crofoot; Vice-President, Rev. R. C. Wilson, Secretary, Rev. L. I. Moffett. Treasurer, Rev. H. M. Smith.

The following were elected directors for the same period:

Rev. J. C. Hawk, Rev. J. W. Nichols, J. H. Black, Esq., Rev. E. L. Mattox, Dr. A. Gracie, Rev. L. G. Hulbert, Rev. L. L. Little, F. W. Goddard, M.D., G. E. Tucker, Esq., Rev. W. H. Hudson, F. P. Manget, M.D., Rev. O. C. Crawford.

HOW TO MAKE BABY SLEEP WITHOUT OPIATES.

The baby that cannot sleep and cries half the night is not displaying these symptoms without reason. They show that it is not well. In such cases Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy, act like magic and are a blessing to mothers, for they make the little one sleep happily and wake up well.

There are no injurious drugs or opiates in Baby's Own Tablets, as is proved by the certificate of Dr. Milton Hersey, M. A., Sc., Official Analyst to the cities of Quebec and Montreal, of which the following is a copy:

MONTREAL TESTING LABORATORY,
146, St. James Street, Montreal.

"I hereby certify that I have made a careful chemical analysis of Baby's Own Tablets.

"My analysis has proved that the Tablets contain absolutely no opiate or narcotic;

"They can be given with perfect safety to the youngest infant;

"They are a safe and efficient medicine for the troubles they are indicated to relieve and cure."

(Sgd.) MILTON L. HERSEY, M.A., Sc.

Baby's Own Tablets are obtainable from chemists, also post free, 60 cents the vial, from Dr Williams' Medicine Co., 98 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.
